Welcome back men. Congratulations. You're added an eighth inch to that overgrown beard since last week. Well, no reason for further delay, I'm Professor Veronica Bond and class is in session. Long before there was fast food and fantasy football, there were actually men in America. The gents who blazed new paths across the country before there was electricity and energy drinks you mix with vodka.

The point of today's lesson is to educate you about the pros and cons of male facial hair. Why you voluntarily grow a thicket on your face to host families of arthropods... I'll never understand?

Men, it was 10,000 years ago the last time a woman wanted to sleep with a caveman. Today, she has a high paying job, plays mahjong with her friends and has easy access to electricity to power her vibrator. Men, you need to clean up your act and whack the thick brush hiding your mug. Something nicely cropped, Yes...Rip Van Winkle, no. As always, I wish I had more time. Until next week, I'm Professor Veronica Bond and I'm outta here (give a wink to the camera).
